On August 22, 2005, the court heard petitioner's Motion to Compel Payment of Transcripts. No opposition was filed by respondent and respondent did not appear at oral argument.

Upon due consideration of the record and the arguments of petitioner, the court grants this motion for the reasons set forth herein.

Respondent appealed the Summons Enforcement Order to the Ninth Circuit on June 13, 2005.

Rule 10, Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure, and Rule 10.1, Ninth Circuit Rules, pertain to the record on appeal. Rule

1 10(a) and Rule 10-3.1(a) require that an appellant must order 2 from the reporter all portions of the transcript not already on 3 filed that the appellant believes necessary for the appeal or 4 file a certificate that no transcript will be ordered within ten 5 days after filing the notice of appeal. According to the United 6 States, respondent has not complied with these requirements. On 7 July 1, 2005, the United States designated the transcript of 8 proceedings held before Magistrate Judge Beck on May 6, 2005 as 9 necessary for the defense of the appeals pursuant to Rule 10-10 3.1(d). Rule 10-3.1(d) provides that, within 30 days of the 11 filing of the notice of appeal, the appellant shall file a 12 transcript order in the district court, providing a copy to the 13 court reporter and the Court of Appeals and that 14 In order the transcripts, appellant shall 15 either order all portions of the transcript 16 listed by both appellant and appellee or 17 certify to the district court pursuant to subsection (f) of this rule that the portions listed by appellee in the response to appellant's initial notice are unnecessary.

18 According to the United States, respondent failed to comply with 19 Rule 10-3.1(d), even after the United States served respondent
20 with a notice describing these rules and setting forth the dates 21 of compliance.

22 The United States moves the court to order respondent to pay 23 for the May 6, 2005 transcript designated by the United States as 24 necessary to defend these appeals. Rule 10-3.1(f) provides in 25 pertinent part:

26 If appellee notifies appellant that

1 additional portions of the transcript are 2 required ..., appellant shall make 3 arrangements with the court reporter to pay 4 for these additional portions unless 5 appellant certifies that they are unnecessary 6 to the appeal and explains why not.

7 8 If such a certificate is filed in the 9 district court, with copies to the court 10 reporter and this court, the district court 11 shall determine which party shall pay for 12 which portions of the transcript

13 In moving for an order that respondents pay for the May 6, 2005 14 transcript, the United States notes that respondent did not 15 comply with Rule 10-3.1(f) by filing the certification that the 16 transcript ordered by the appellee was unnecessary. As the 17 United States argues:

18 The present appeal notices were mere pretexts 19 for delay. They were a transparent attempt 20 to frustrate the Orders instructing the 21 respondents-appellants to appear in Judge 22 Beck's courtroom on June 17, 2005 and comply 23 with the IRS summonses. In that courtroom, 24 respondents-appellants could have asserted 25 their self-incrimination claims in response 26 to specific questions, and could have had those claims tested before Judge Beck. But respondents-appellants filed their appeal notices June 13, 2005, just four days before they were to appear, and on June 17 they refused to appear, delaying their compliance with the Orders. Their appeal notice on its face belies any seriousness in the appeal, for respondents-appellants, who are individuals, there make the incredible contention that this Court cannot force them to testify 'since the respondent is an artificial entity.' ... That the respondentsappellants refuse to perfect their appeals as required by FRAP 10 and 9th Cir.R. 10-3.1, only confirms their appeals' lack of seriousness. Should respondents-appellants refuse to comply with the compulsive order sought here, their cavalier behavior toward the requirements for perfecting an appeal may

1 help convince the Ninth Circuit to dismiss 2 their appeal.

3 Because respondent has not complied with the above-quoted 4 rules and has made no showing to this court that this motion 5 should not be granted, the court rules that this motion be 6 granted.

7 ACCORDINGLY:

8 1. Petitioner's Motion to Compel Payment of Transcripts is 9 granted.

10 2. Within ten (10) court days of the filing date of this 11 Order, respondent shall order and pay for the transcript of the 12 hearing held before Magistrate Judge Beck on May 6, 2005.

13 IT IS SO ORDERED.
